Introduction

The Malka Aboriginal Art Prize was established by the late Mr. Marvin McKenzie Senior, a visionary leader who sought to create a platform for Aboriginal artists to share their cultural stories, creativity, and connection to Country through art. The term 'Malka', meaning 'mark' or 'painting', is derived from several Aboriginal languages in the Port Augusta region, reflecting the community's deep cultural heritage.

Now in its 17th year, the Malka Aboriginal Art Prize has grown to become a well-established art and culture event in Port Augusta, celebrating and nurturing Aboriginal artists of all ages from the Far North, Mid North, and Eyre Peninsula regions.

Over the years, the Prize has celebrated artistic excellence while fostering development, cultural exchange, inclusion and community pride. The exhibition attracts strong engagement and media attention each year, reflecting the collaboration between artists, local organisations, sponsors, and the Port Augusta City Council – all working together to honour Aboriginal voices and identity through art.

About The Event

Port Augusta Mayor Linley Shine, 2025 Malka Winner Candace Swan, Elder Harry Dare

The Malka Aboriginal Art Prize Exhibition will officially open to the public on Wednesday 3rd June 2026 at the Yarta Purtli Art Gallery, Port Augusta.

The exhibition will showcase an extraordinary collection of contemporary works open to Aboriginal artists from across the Far North, Mid North, and Eyre Peninsula, celebrating culture, identity, and connection to Country. All artworks exhibited will be available for sale, offering visitors the opportunity to support artists directly and take home an original piece of Aboriginal art.

The Awards Ceremony will be held on Thursday 9th July 2026, during NAIDOC Week, bringing together artists, community members, and guests to celebrate artistic excellence and cultural storytelling.

The exhibition will remain open to the public until Friday 17th July 2026, allowing visitors to view the winning works and enjoy the full collection throughout the NAIDOC celebrations.

The Malka Aboriginal Art Prize continues to strengthen cultural pride, artistic recognition, and community connection through the vibrant stories shared by Aboriginal artists from across regional South Australia.
